

Dr. Ye 'Solar' Hong
Director of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

Dr. Hong previously served as the coordinator for graduate students and international students at Ohio University. There she connected students to university resources and contributed to creating a safe space for minority groups on campus. She also served in the Chinese Students and Scholars Association helping Chinese students transition to campus life in the U.S.

She has a bachelor's degree in English for international finance from Guangdong University of Foreign Studies in China, a master's degree in sports administration and business administration from Ohio University and a doctor in higher education also from Ohio University. Dr. Hong uses the English name "Solar," as she wants to deliver her "solar power" to impact the lives of the people around her.
