Northwest Technical College, Conference Room 152A

8:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.

Equity and inclusion are key components to the success of all stakeholders (i.e., students, employees, visitors) in postsecondary education. However, incorporating these principles into all functional areas can appear challenging for all professionals no matter their positionality. through the Engaging Equity and Inclusion in your Field training, learners will explore practices and actions that promote equity and inclusion (Review CAS standards to define functional areas). Learners will engage in many learning modalities to investigate their own functional area for equity and inclusion.
