Critical Race Theory in Education

March 23, 2023

8:00 a.m. to Noon

Bemidji State University, Memorial 300

Critical Race Theory continues to be under scrutiny by scholars, practitioners, administrators, politicians, and even religious leaders. The Critical Race Theory in Education training will dive deep into the theory of critical race. Learners will engage in historical review of the development of CRT. They will also engage in application exercises that inspire critical thought-partnership. CRT may serve as a tool for academic leaders, scholars, and practitioners to disrupt and dismantle the social construct, that is racism. Learners will be able to identify the opposition to CRT and expand their knowledge concerning the usability of this tool.
